Nuclear News

SPONSORED CONTENT

If your company has a new innovation or recent project success story to convey to the nuclear industry, Sponsored Content in Nuclear News is an effective new way of communicating your message to the nuclear field in a greater level of detail than an ad alone. By integrating your brand into ours, you'll position yourself as an industry expert and increase the likelihood of a prospect becoming a client.

Take control of your messaging and deliver your news directly to the nearly 11,000 nuclear science and technology professionals that rely on our magazine to stay informed.

- Content and images for editorial are supplied by the advertiser and design is completed by NN Desktop Editor
- Printed in one monthly issue (not available in Buyers Guide)
- Posted on NN webpage for 30 days (with a link to your site)
- Promoted within NN member notification email

Specifications for editorial content

- Editorial content should be supplied in a word processing document (Word, WordPerfect, etc.) Include a headline/title for your article along with body text of approximately 600-800 words per page. The amount of text that can comfortably fit on a page is dependent upon the amount of images you would also like to include; our Desktop Editor will work with you to fit the material into the available space, and you will receive a proof prior to publication.
- Photos, diagrams, and any other images that you would like to provide with your article should be in JPG format and should include a caption.
